#107

Discipline in Thinking □

What is discipline in thinking?

It means not following every random thought blindly… but filtering your thoughts, understanding what is right or wrong, and then moving forward.

If your thoughts are unstable, your work will also remain incomplete.

But when your thinking is disciplined, every decision becomes clear—and quality naturally reflects in your work.

Take a simple example:

A student who controls distractions like phone and social media while studying achieves better results in less time. Why? Because there is discipline in their thinking.

□ “Discipline in thoughts creates excellence in action.”

Remember this thing,

Work doesn’t become perfect just by effort…

It becomes perfect through clear and disciplined thinking.

So decide today—

“I will control my thoughts,

and through them, I will build my success.” □